

Attachment 1

state —The political system of a body of people who are politically organized; the system of rules by which jurisdiction and authority are exercised over such a body of people. The organ of the state by which its relations with other states are managed is the government.

Black's Law Dictionary, (8th ed. 2004)

body politic —A group of people regarded in a political sense and organized under a common governmental authority.

Black's Law Dictionary, (8th ed. 2004)

The specifically enumerated “States” of 42 U.S.C. § 1301(a)(1)—individual bodies politic comprising territory (municipal jurisdiction), citizenry, and government. The “States” are political subdivisions of the national body politic of the “United States” defined under 42 U.S.C. § 1301(a)(2) in its political sense. The Federal government exercises political and absolute legislative sovereignty over and within these “States.”

The 50 states united by and under the Constitution of the United States. These “States” are not specifically enumerated under 42 U.S.C. § 1301(a)(1), but are in the same general class, as the 50 States are also individual political subdivisions of the national body politic of the “United States” defined under 42 U.S.C. § 1301(a)(2) in its political sense. The Federal government exercises political sovereignty over these “States” on a national level, but only specified and enumerated subject matter jurisdiction within on a legislative level. The governments of the 50 states maintain general municipal jurisdiction over their respective territory.

The “States” defined under 42 U.S.C. § 1301(a)(1)
when regarded in a political sense
